The dispensaries, big and little, were officially ordered closed. The constabulary were either paid off or given checks and all dismissed. The State Treasurer declined to pay checks on account of the dispensary. The discensary employes are bunting other obs. The attorneys for the State are consulting to see if they can do anything to save their case. Governor Tillman continues to keep his cards to with reference to the license question sounds passing strange.

When the orders to close the dispensaries went out about noon there were quite a number of prospective purchasers in the establishment and they could not exactly understand the meaning of such sudden closing.

There is no question that Governor Tillman hold the solution of the matter, either by calling au extra session of troops, welcomed by us; their comof the Legislature or allowing things to jog along. Governor Tillman had a rush of visitors a'l day long and when the reporters got their seance he was of the military council, supporting in a very good humor.
